

A mad scientist creates hybrid food-animals using his strange machine.

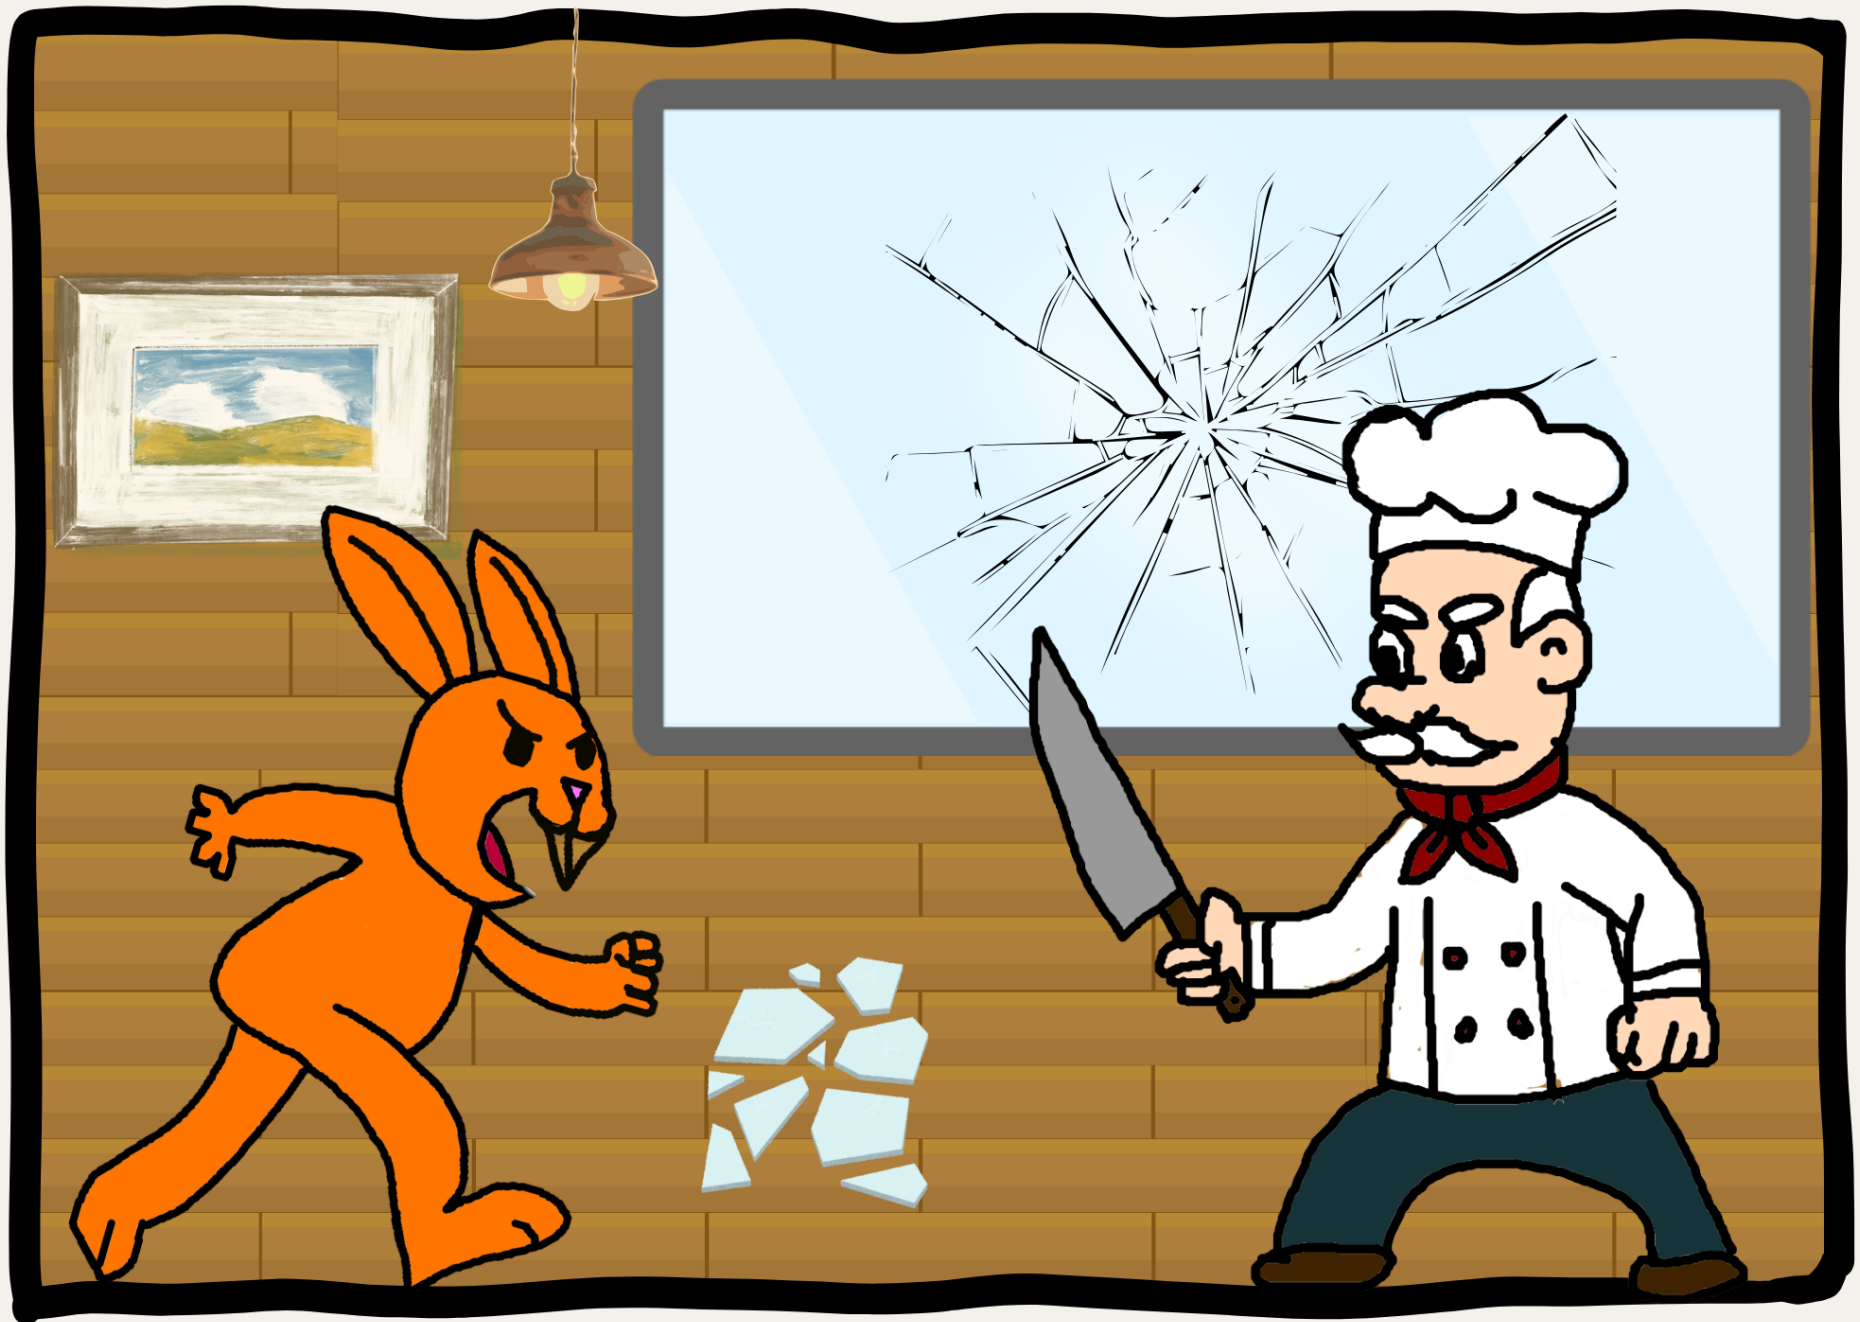

The machine spirals out of control as the food-animals escape the lab.

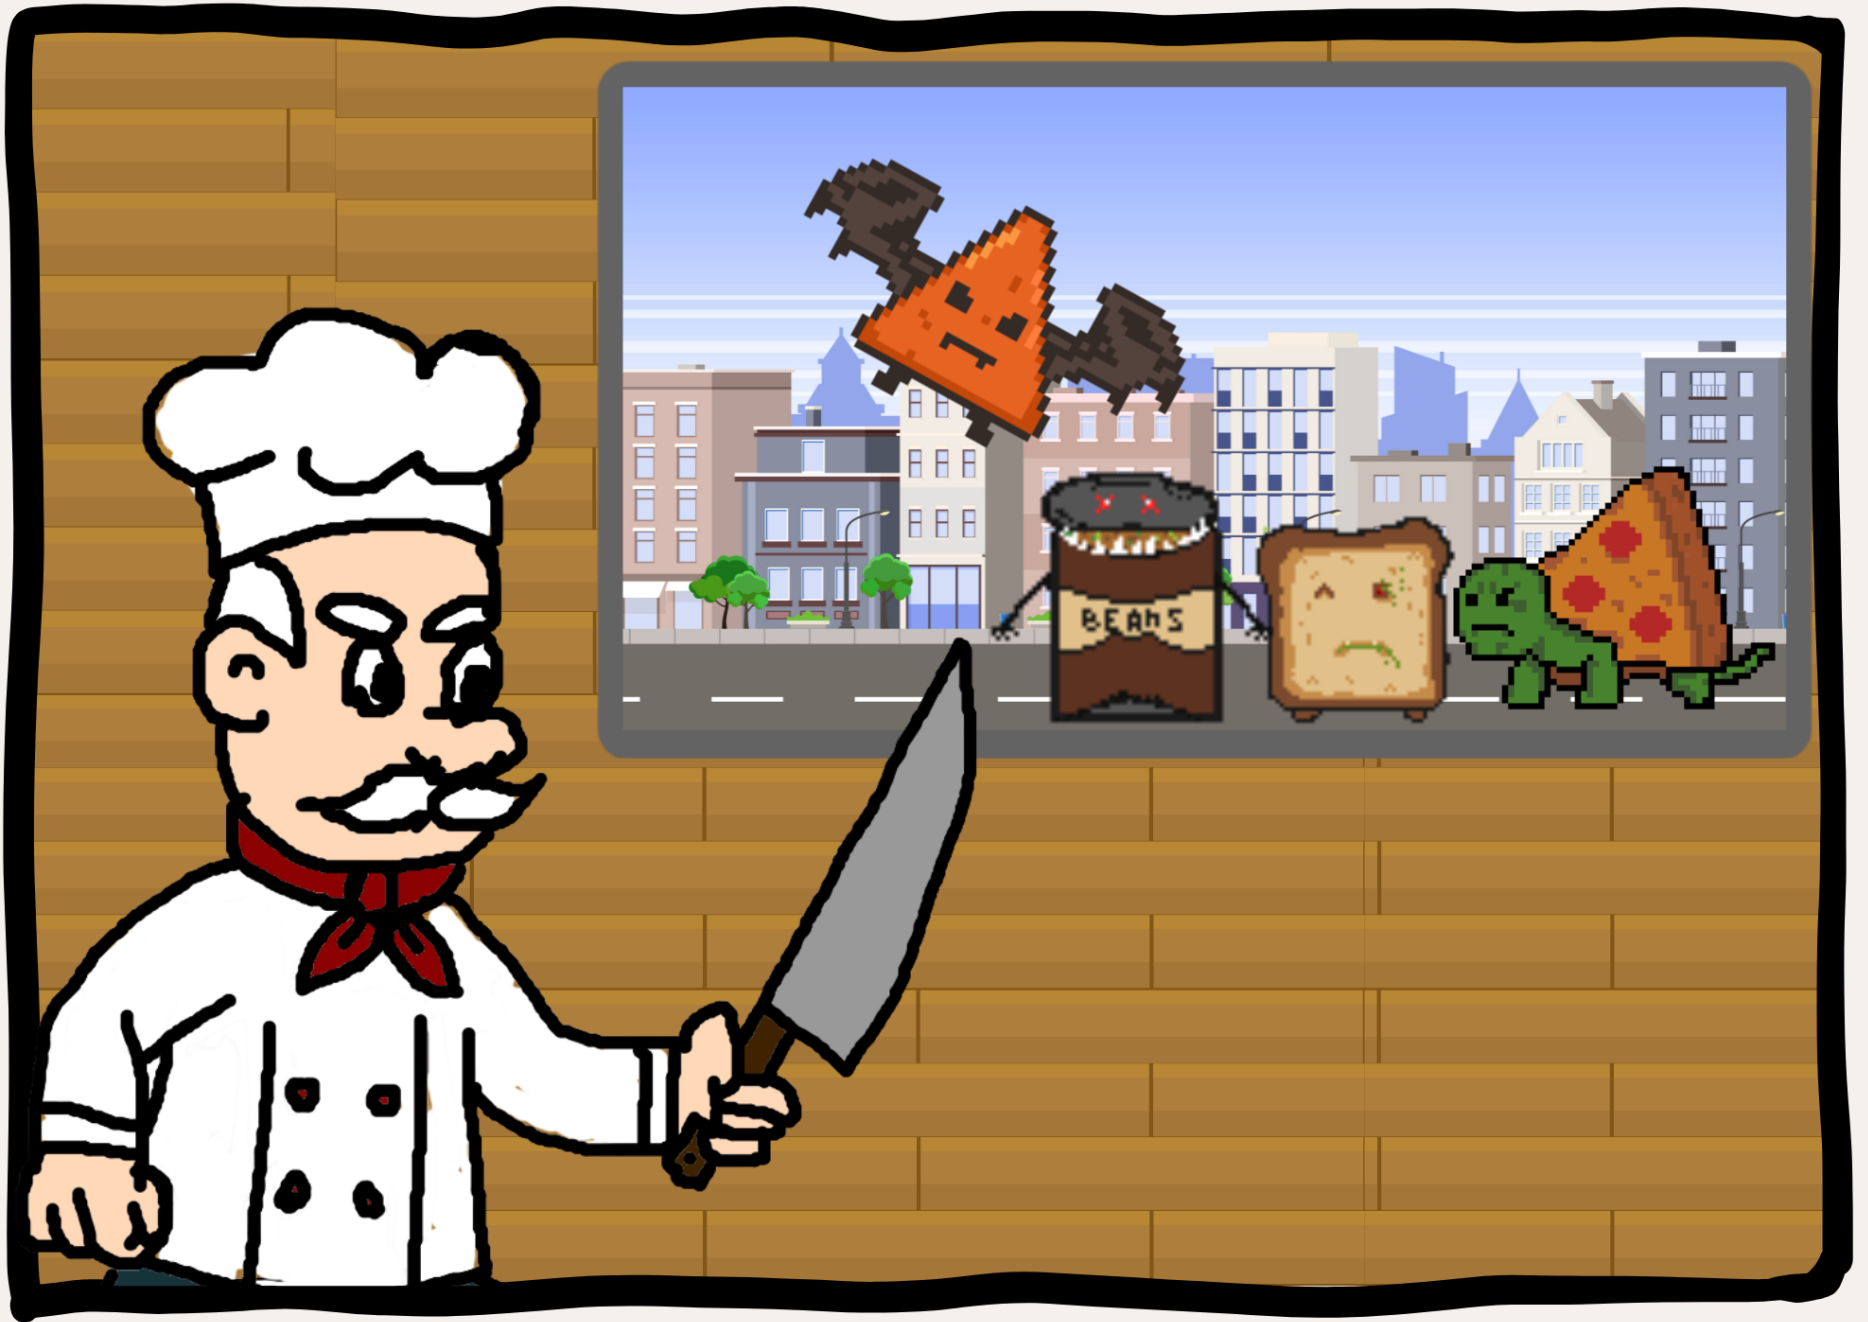

The hybrids flood the city streets, while terrified citizens run for their lives.

An old chef notices the chaos outside and prepares himself with his knife.

A carrot-tooth rabbit smashes through the window, and the chef strikes back.

The chef faces a massive horde of food-animals — the true battle begins.